BANNER OF LIGHT.

try are to deliver a series of lectures, eight in the present week. The lecture comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States. of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.

Alfred Russel Wallace, LL.D.

This distinguished English naturalist arrived in Boston for a visit and was welcomed by the Quincy Mason. His engagements in this country led him to deliver a series of lectures on Natural Science. He began his course before the Lowell Institute, in the week of the present week. The lectures comprising the course are named "The Darwinian Theory of Evolution"; "Ancient Man in the States of Australia"; "The Origin and Uses of the Colors of Flowers and Fruits." After delivering the monuments of the Banners, they shall give the Banners to the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore. It is also provided that the Banners shall become a part of the University's official insignia.