Provided funding to plan, implement and monitor the alternative route to middle level and secondary teacher certification program at Western Kentucky University, $25,000

2002 United States Department of Education, Transition to Teaching (TTT) grant. I assisted the Green River Regional Education Cooperative (GRREC) by providing the "instructional delivery" component of the grant proposal. This component counted as 40 points of the 100 points possible for the grant proposal. The grant was valued at 2.2 million dollars, and 1 million of the 2.2 million dollars is earmarked for additional tuition revenue for WKU. The "Call for TTT Grant Proposals" included a statement that "universities are not allowed to individually submit a TTT grant proposal, but they are strongly encouraged to collaborate with local education agencies in submitting a grant proposal." I served as the Western Kentucky University employee who "collaborated" with GRREC in successfully obtaining the grant. The TTT grant provides financial assistance to candidates who wish to pursue initial teacher certification and the MAE degree simultaneously via the WKU Alternative Route to Teacher Certification/Master of Arts in Education program.
