

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to express my deep gratitude to my advisor Prof. Olfa Nasraoui who has offered constant scientific support and invaluable advice over a period of 5 years and for actually reading this dissertation in full. Special thanks goes to Prof. Robert Wyatt from the Biology Department (Western Kentucky University), who has kindly provided excellent technical support, guidance, and resources to implement the research. For guidance and patience, I would like to thank my Committee members: Prof. Ibrahim N. Imam from the Department of Computer Engineering and Computer Science (University of Louisville), Prof. Dar-Jen Chang from the Department of Computer Engineering and Computer Science (University of Louisville), Prof. Ming Ouyang from the Department of Computer Engineering and Computer Science (University of Louisville), and Prof. Joanna Wolfe from the Department of English (University of Louisville). Also, I would like to thank Prof. Hyoil Han from the College of Information Science and Technology (Drexel University) for her invaluable advice in the ontololy domain. Special thanks goes to Prof. Darina Dicheva from the Department of Computer Science (Winston-Salem State University) for her continuous support regarding my publications, especially in the area of Artificial Intelligence in Education (AIED) and Semantic E-learning. Other thanks go to several editors of the volumes in which I published book chapters and journals; Prof. Miltiadis D. Lytras from the Computer Engineering and Informatics Department (University of Patras, Greece), Prof. Dragan Gasevic from the School of Computing and Information Systems (Athabasca University, Canada), Prof. Ajith Abraham at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway, and Prof. Ladjel Bellatreche, from L'École Nationale Supérieure de Mécanique et d'Aérotechnique, Laboratoire d’Informatique Scientifique et Industrielle (Chasseneuil-du-Poitou, France). Other friends who have supported me technically or morally during these 5 years are too numerous to list here individually—to all of them I say “thanks.” I cannot end without acknowledging the generous encouragement that I have received from my mother Hristina Kirilova Popova, my father Saïd Zhuhadar, my sisters Alia and Huda, my late brother Sami, who instilled in me the inspiration to set high goals to achieve them, and the un-failing love that I received from my kids Natasha and Rudy Alkhayat. Finally, thanks to all the support I received from my dearest friends, Iyad Alkhayat, Lina Betamouni, Sama Zakaria, Valentina Stanchova, Edith Guicherd, and specially from Elizabeth Romero.