

The Use of Linear Algebra in Balancing Chemical Equations

Abstract: We describe an application of linear algebra to a chemistry problem. In particular, we show how the problem of balancing equations in chemistry can be modeled and solved using matrices and row reduction.